Southern Dems Push Filibuster

President Calls For Price Law

Urges Curbs On Inflation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — While Dixie Democrats carried their Senate filibuster against the anti-poll tax bill into its second day, President Truman issued a new blast shortly before noon accusing the Republican Congress of a "blind disregard" of quickening inflation.

The rebellious southerners had no opposition even from their own party regulars as they plodded through legal arguments that Congress lacks the constitutional right to regulate state election laws.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the GOP policy committee, predicted the Dixie dwadling would be interrupted only long enough today for the Senate to vote down a resolution to quit and go home tomorrow.

President Truman, undaunted by the delay tactics of his Democrat foes of the south and his icy reception on Tuesday, threw a whole book of economics at the special session. It was his mid-year economic report, 115 pages long.

The President renewed his demand for sweeping powers—including control over prices, wages, rationing and credit, plus an excess profits tax to discourage price-boosting.

CALLS FOR ROLL BACK

The core of the plan, a 4 per cent roll back in prices of essential cost of living items, was revealed yesterday, when former OPA Chief Paul Porter laid an omnibus White House bill before the lawmakers. The aim, by cutting those prices back to the November, 1947, level, is to hold general living costs where they are now, Porter said.

Mr. Truman, in his message today, insisted:

"It is not too late for preventive measures, and we are not yet forced by the tragic consequences of depression to adopt measures which would interfere with our free economy far more than would any or all of the measures I have proposed.

"I realize that the anti-inflationary program I have offered will impede some business plans, will curb some profit opportunities, and limit some wage advances.

"It is of the very essence of a plan to counteract inflation that this is done. All groups will ultimately benefit when it is done."

In eight pages the President gave a glowing account of peacetime or all-time records achieved at midyear in jobs, wages, production, trade—and prices.

The other 107 pages he sent to Capitol Hill comprised the report of his council of economic advisers. The three-member council backed up Mr. Truman's plea for more power, but did not endorse any particular form of regulation.

Israel Wants Bigger Area

TEL AVIV, Israel—(AP)—Israel demanded today new territories in Palestine — perhaps including Jerusalem—as a result of Jewish victories over Arab armies.

Foreign minister Moshe Shertok served notice of the Jewish demands yesterday in an address before the Israeli state council. He said:

"The Arabs are responsible that the boundaries fixed by the United Nations no longer are practical and we must insist on changing them by adding territories and not by diminishing them."

Hen Issues Yolks In Triplicate

CLEVELAND—(INS)—As Wilmer F. Wendt of suburban Bay Village says, there's always something new under the sun.

Wendt, an egg dealer for the past 30 years at a Cleveland market estimates that he has handled 14,000,000 eggs.

Yesterday for the first time in his 30 years of egg-testing, Wendt discovered an egg with three yolks.

Police Use Tear Gas In Univis Strike

National Guard Call Held Back

DAYTON —(INS)— Police used tear gas to dispel a milling crowd of hundreds of CIO pickets and back-to-work employes at the Univis Lens company plant today.

The melee—the fourth outbreak of violence this week—reached such proportions that Police Chief Rudolph Wurstner asked City Manager Russell E. McClure to request National Guard troops to help maintain order.

However, at Columbus, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said the guard "probably will not be called out" because the situation again seemed to be well in hand. However, Col. Richard Graham was sent to Dayton as an "observer."

At least 600 pickets, assembled for mass duty from all CIO locals in Dayton, moved in a half-dozen lines around the circumference of the plant, despite a still-effective injunction limiting picketing to three at each gate.

About 150 workers who are no longer represented by the CIO's United Electrical Workers—the union lost a bargaining election a week ago—entered the plant at 7:30.

The melee broke out a short while later when another group attempted to enter.

Wurstner reported that Alfred Huffgarden, one of the returnees, jostled picket Carl E. Miller when the latter screamed "scab!" at him.

Weather Dry, So Forecast Is All Wet

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (AP) — There is no joy in Waynesburg today—it didn't rain on July 29.

The absence of precipitation may seem like a boon to some communities, but to Waynesburg a rainless July 29 is like Christmas without carols or the Fourth of July without firecrackers.

A few years ago, one of the local boys figured out that it had rained on almost every July 29 since goodness knows when.

Since then, the Waynesburgites—and a lot of former residents now making good in the bigger cities—have been accepting bets on the probability of rain in the old home town on the 29th day of July.

Rain fell less than one mile from town along the Blacksville road, but that wasn't in Waynesburg.

13 Directors Sent to Jail

NURENBERG, Germany—(AP)—Thirteen directors of the giant I. G Farben Chemical trust were convicted of war crimes and sentenced today to serve jail terms ranging from 18 months to eight years.

One of the four American judges on the tribunal which tried the case promptly filed a dissent, contending that the decision of the majority was too lenient.

He was Judge Paul M. Herbert of Baton Rouge, La., who declared that he felt 20 of the 23 defendants should have been convicted of mistreating slave labor. Only five actually were convicted on this count.

ELECTRICITY KILLS CHILD

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O.—(AP)—Larry Wilson, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Wilson, was killed by electric shock yesterday when he touched a live wire from which a radio had been disconnected.

Move Bodies From Debris

Blast Tragedy Worst Since War

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Germany — (AP)— Weeping German women waited today as working parties gouged into the I. G. Farben chemical plant wreckage for bodies of men missing since Wednesday's disastrous explosion.

The latest official French and German count of casualties in Europe's biggest postwar catastrophe showed: 133 known dead, 200-250 missing and possibly dead, more than 2,300 injured.

During the night five more injured workers died at the Mannheim hospital, raising the known death toll to 138.

American chaplains worked throughout the night administering to the dying. The chaplains and German clergymen planned a memorial service today in Mannheim for the victims of the explosion.

American troops who had risked their lives in rescue and fire-fighting work had returned to their zone. The blood-stained Americans withdrew when French soldiers said their "gallant services" no longer were needed

Hungarian Chief Quits

BUDAPEST — (INS) — Peasant Party Leader Dr. Zoltan Tildy resigned as president of Hungary in a sudden government crisis today.

Tildy's resignation was the direct result of the arrest of his son-in-law, Victor Csornoky, by Hungarian security police.

Csornoky was accused of felony and high treason.

The resignation of Tildy was not unexpected.

Although he had made an agreement with the communist leaders of Hungary by which he became president of the country, his views were not entirely in accord with the Red regime.

The situation in Hungary has been likened to that of Czechoslovakia preceding the recent resignation of President Eduard Benes.

CIO Will Hear Congresswoman

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, (D-Cal.), will be the main speaker at the Ohio CIO-Political Action committee's state-wide rally in Cincinnati Aug. 8. William Lavelle, state CIO secretary-treasurer, announced today.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson will also speak at the meeting, Lavelle said.

Stifling Humidity, Too

Summer 'Scorcher' Pushes Mercury Up

Many a brow was mopped in Mansfield today as another mid-summer "scorcher" pushed the mercury up to 85 at noon with promise of going higher.

Almost stifling humidity accompanied the sudden temperature rise, adding to the discomfort. Some places in the state were expected to record 90 degree or better readings by the end of the day.

FBI Pressing Bandit Hunt

FBI authorities in Cleveland today said they were continuing a search for the two bandits who held up the Tiro Farmers and Citizens bank Tuesday, but refused any word on the progress of the manhunt.

The entire Plymouth area was alerted yesterday for two youths, reported to have fled their temporary sleeping quarters in a loft over the McPherson Body and Fender shop.

The fleeing youths were reported to have left "T" shirts, resembling those worn by the bank robbers, in the loft. Blankets, used for sleeping, were also found.

Meanwhile, Mansfield reformatory officials said neither James Campbell, 26, or Russell Kansorka, 24, who escaped the institution farm almost a week ago and who were tentatively identified as the bank bandits, have been apprehended.

Staged about 1:40 p. m. Tuesday, the robbery yielded $2,350 for the bandits who forced Mrs. Edith McNutt, bank cashier to hand over the cash at gun-point

Weathermen hopefully predicted that cooler and dryer weather would soon replace the heat and humidity of the low pressure area. Showers and thundershowers are foreseen for tonight.

As high winds up to 35 miles per hour were expected to sweep the lake region, small crafts were warned to stay at port.

Observers predicted an end to the high temperatures for the week end as showers cool most of the state.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook follows:

Temperatures will average about normal for the period. Cooler over the weekend warming up Monday and Tuesday and cooler Wednesday. Showers again about Tuesday totaling ½ to ¾ inch.

Abbott Case Climax Near

Lovers Face Murder Charge

HAMILTON—(AP)—The joint first degree murder trial of 40-year-old Mrs. Marie Conn Abbott and her 27-year-old farmhand lover moved toward a jury verdict today as opposing counsel made their closing statements.

Mrs. Abbott and Cyril (Scotty) Gordon are charged in the fatal beating of the woman's husband, Morris R. Abbott, 44-year-old Reily township farmer.

Butler county Prosecutor Paul A. Baden called two rebuttal witnesses yesterday and the defense is expected to summon at least two others today before closing statements are made. Court officials expressed belief that the case would go to the jury of seven men and five women late in the day or tomorrow.

Mrs. Abbott, mother of two children, admitted on the stand yesterday that she had been intimate with Gordon but said they had not planned the May 31 death of her husband.

Gordon has admitted he struck Abbott fatal blows with a mattock as they argued over a divorce for the man's wife.

Farm of 60 Acres Sells For $57,700

LANCASTER, Pa.—(AP)—A 60-acre farm in Lancaster county, often referred to as the garden spot of the world, sold for $995 per acre.

"In 32 years as an auctioneer of farm sales, this is the highest price ever paid for a Lancaster county farm of that size in my experience," said Landis Buchen, after knocking down the farm to Amos N. Hoover of Ephrata, Pa., yesterday.

The farm was put on the block by Martin Z. Burkholder. Bidding started at $825 an acre. The price was run up by two determined bidders.

Boy Gets $18,000 For Loss of Eye

DETROIT, Mich. —(INS)— The Gooding Amusement company of Columbus and sideshow proprietor Carlos F. Thomson must pay eleven-year-old Richard Hinson of Detroit $18,000 for the loss of his right eye. Detroit Circuit Judge Frank Fitzgerald approved the consent judgment.

Carnival Worker Roy B. Hix kicked Hinson in the face last September as the boy tried to crawl under a tent at the Michigan State fair.

Admits Murder On 3 Counts In City Court

"Guilty."

Robert Murl Daniels said the word flatly this morning in Municipal court as he admitted the brutal cornfield slayings of John E. Niebel, Ohio State Reformatory farm superintendent, his wife, and their daughter, Phyllis, 21, on July 21.

The 24-year-old ex-OSR inmate, returned to Mansfield last night from Celina, was bound to the Richland county grand jury without bond on three counts of first-degree murder.

He appeared before Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler a few minutes after 11 a. m.

Shortly before the preliminary hearing at the city building, Prosecutor Theodore Lutz announced that the grand jury will be called into special session Monday to hear charges against Daniels.

The accused slayer appeared in court today with Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Deputies Norman Smaltz and Ralph Hildebrand. The prisoner's hands were manacled and attached to a belt at his waist. He wore a pair of dark slacks and a yellow "T" shirt. He was unshaven.

Judge Schettler said, "You are charged with murder in the first degree on three counts. How do you plead?"

Daniels flatly replied: "Guilty."

The judge then started reading the separate murder charges, first repeating the name of Nolana Niebel, wife of the reformatory farm superintendent.

'THERE WERE THREE'

"I don't know their names; there were three of them," Daniels said in a quiet voice.

Prior to reading of the charges, Judge Schettler informed Daniels of his rights in employing an attorney. Daniels made no reply to that statement.

As Daniels sat in the courtroom, awaiting the arrival of the judge, his eyes wandered over the approximately 25 spectators in the room. He had a smirk on his face. Most of the crowd in the courtroom was made up of city building employes who had heard of the hearing a few minutes before it opened.

While Prosecutor Lutz carried out yesterday's and today's proceedings in comparative secrecy, it was learned that the prosecutor and deputy sheriffs took Daniels to the Niebel home on the North Main street road and to the murder scene near the Richland Recreation Center this morning.

Questioned about Daniels' reaction to the trip, Lutz said: "I will neither confirm nor deny that we visited the scenes."

Daniels' crime trail ended at a roadblock near Van Wert a week ago this morning when law enforcement officers shot down Daniels' pal, John Coulter West, of Parkersburg, W. Va.

ADMIT 6 MURDERS

Daniels and West, officers said, admitted six slayings in three Ohio counties in the worst two-week crime wave in recent Ohio history.

If the grand jury indicts Daniels, he will be tried in common pleas court after 30 days—if there is a jury trial. Should Daniels plead guilty to the indictments, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch can ask the state to name three judges to hear the case and pass sentence.

It was not indicated today whether Daniels would employ his own counsel or ask common pleas court to name his attorneys.

Despite an order of Judge Eugene McNeill of Van Wert that Daniels should be confined in the Mansfield reformatory for safe keeping, the accused slayer was taken to the county jail when he was returned to Mansfield about 5:30 p. m., yesterday.

Sheriff Robinson said he will be held in the county jail because he is in county custody until he is sentenced.

Lutz said Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of the reformatory told him he could not legally accept Daniels as a prisoner unless he had been sentenced by a court. Glattke said, however, he would attempt to get special permission in Daniels' case if Lutz wanted him confined at the reformatory.

PRISONER ISOLATED

Lutz and Sheriff Robinson said they thought it would be "wiser" to keep Daniels isolated at the county jail and not take him back to the reformatory.

Daniels is held in the women's section of the jail under 24-hour guard. Sheriff Robinson said that Daniels was lodged in the corridor section of the women's section. There is no one else in that part of the jail on the second floor.

Everything was removed from the section to prevent any attempt at suicide. Robinson said the section is "escape-proof."

In the event that Daniels pleads innocent on arraignment in common pleas court, then several special juror venires of 75 persons each would be picked by the jury commissioners from which a petit jury would be chosen to hear the case.

The juror venires would have to be served on Daniels 15 days before the trial date.

Lutz credited Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett of Franklin county (Columbus) with offering the most eloquent plea for the chance to try Daniels, during the conference at Van Wert yesterday.

Bartlett pointed out that Daniels already is under indictment in Co-

Daniels Retains Swagger He Showed Week Ago

Robert Murl Daniels, 24-year-old accused murderer, came back to Mansfield last night as cocky and swaggering as when he was captured just a week ago near Van Wert.

Apparently thrilled at the secrecy which surrounded his return from the Celina, O., jail to the Richland county jail, the dapper ex-reformatory inmate posed readily for photographers after he arrived at the county jail.

He didn't want his picture taken, however, until he tidied up a bit.

"Wait till I get my shirt collar straight," he said, adding, "maybe it would be better if I posed with a gun in my hand."

Daniels' attempts to joke with officers brought curt replies and serious faces.

Daniels appeared to have "warmed up" to Sheriff Roy Shaffer of Van Wert county who came here last night with the prisoner.

As Sheriff Shaffer left Mansfield, Daniels told him: "Well, so long, buddy. I'll be seeing you."

While Sheriff Robinson and Sheriff Shaffer stood outside Daniels' cell door locking him in, Shaffer reached through and shook hands with Daniels. He turned to the photographers and asked them if they wanted a picture of them saying good bye.

WEARS CHECKED SUIT

Soon after Daniels was taken to his cell on the second floor of the jail, he stripped to the waist in an attempt to get relief from the stifling heat. When he arrived from Celina and Van Wert he was wearing the same light grey checked suit and flashy tie he wore when he was captured.

The prisoner rode back in the rear seat of Sheriff Frank E. Robinson's car. He was seated between Deputy Harold Marvin of Richland county and Sheriff Shaffer.

Marvin said Daniels talked little, making only a few remarks to Sheriff Shaffer about the weather and sights along the highway. Daniels' wrists were handcuffed to a heavy belt around his waist. Sheriff Robinson drove the car in which Daniels rode and Deputy Foster Palmer was in the front seat with Robinson.

The sheriff's car followed a state patrol car on the trip back to Mansfield. Riding in the car were Patrolman Roy Ensten and Cpl. C. B. Tieben.

Daniels was taken directly to the women's cell in the county jail, where he was isolated from the other county prisoners.

He was told to remove his coat, tie and belt before being locked up. These measures were taken to prevent any possible attempt at suicide.

Truman Pathetic In Appearance Before United States Congress

WASHINGTON—The little cigar-sport from Independence was a sorry and pathetic squirt in the opening speech of his campaign. Even the title of President of the United States couldn't protect him from the cold contempt of his own old colleagues, or, worse, from the pity of a few hundred people in the galleries who saw a tacky county commissioner in a scene of historic humiliation.

A strang wildness had completely changed the amiable senator from Missouri who came to Washington a hick and very frankly appealed to the upper classmen to show him where to cash his check, and how to find the little subway that runs from the Capitol to the Senator office building.

They liked him then and when Roosevelt died and he suddenly became President, scared and repeating the prayers his mother taught him, he quietly asked some of them for help and confidence.

He even tried to keep up the friendship with the old crowd on the hill by hopping in his car—a big, soft car—and running up for bean soup with a few of the boys at noon. That had to stop.

It was considered unsafe by the secret service for President Truman to rattle around informally. And this spirit of cooperation might be mistaken for an effort by the executive to coerce the legislative branch.

So Harry Truman had pulled away from Congress and the time had come when, in a storm of confusion over his own failures and the horrible heritage from Roosevelt, he railed at the 80th Congress as the worst in history. Now he was blackguarding Congress and demanding laws.

Now he was coming down the middle aisle of the House to face a joint session, knowing that he had failed terribly and that he had cut himself off from all those men who had been his friends. He had lost their respect and, in his fury and desperation, he had even turned against him that large group of southern Democrats who were quite prepared to go down with him next fall.

He had thrown them to the New York communists and the professional exploiters of racial politics in a shameful and futile bid for the Henry Wallace vote.

As President Truman stepped through the center door of the House chamber, a little fellow walking with a brisk bravado, his quick entrance and rushing stride down to the rostrum were a shocking reminder of many stories from Sing Sing.

"The little green door suddenly opened and the condemned man walked firmly to the chair, bowing with a ghastly grin to the warden and the spectators—."

It was terrible. This was not the condemned man. This was the chief executive of the greatest popular government in history. But he was too condemned. He was condemned to the contempt of fellow-men who had worked with and trusted him in a polite and decent relationship.

They were silent on the Republican side, senators and congressmen, except for a few faint, perfunctory handclaps of pity. They were pitiful handiclaps. A few soft-hearted members, standing as they all did in respect for the office, patted their palms with their fingertips. Just a few pats. Most of the Republicans kept their hands at their sides and even from the Democratic side the salute was thin and patchy.

Stars Recall Picture Roles They Would Like Best to Have Skipped

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—What movie would you most like to forget?

You and I may have many pictures we consider prime candidates for oblivion, but it's different with film stars. Most of the glitterbugs will own up to a single picture which represented a low point in their careers. So the AP Hollywood forum has queried some of them on their worst celluloid experiences. Here we go:

Fred MacMurray: "My worst one was 'Maid of Salem.' One critic observed that most of the time I looked as though I was going to take a saxophone out of my cloak."

Lucille Ball: "'Roman Scandals,' or any of the early pictures in which I was a showgirl. It's very disconcerting to go to a friend's house for an evening and find out they are showing one of those pictures in which I strutted around wearing a wig down to here and little else."

Victor Mature: "I'll pick 'Moss Rose.' The reason is obvious to anyone who saw the picture."

★

John Garfield: "My low point was 'Between Two Worlds,' a remake of 'Outward Bound.' It was stupid and mystic and bad."

Harpo Marx: "Our worst were the last two at MGM—'Go West' and 'The Big Store'."

Sonny Tufts: "Let's see—there were so many. At Paramount they had me playing doctors and lawyers and so forth, which is kind of ridiculous for a guy like me I guess the low point was 'Easy Come, Easy Go' with Diana Lynn and Barry Fitzgerald."

Dan Duryea: "Something called 'Main Street After Dark.' It was so bad even I wouldn't go to see it."

Lloyd Nolan: "A dilly called 'Steel Against the Sky.' After that one, Warners didn't care if they didn't see me for a long time."

Bette Davis: "'In This Our Life.' (With Olivia DeHavilland.) It was just dull, and dullness is the unforgivable sin in movies."

Ruth Hussey: "'Pierre of the Plains' with John Carroll and Bruce Cabot. Even my relatives in Providence didn't like it, so it must have been bad."

Melvyn Douglas: "My second picture, 'Nagana,' in which I was incredibly herioc. My worst scene of all time was when I rescued Tala Birell, who was tied to a stake and surrounded by savages and yawning crocodiles."

Clear Fork Recreation Plan Studied

Officials Check at Akron, Youngstown

City officials began a study today to find out just what types of recreation can be permitted at the new Clear Fork dam reservoir as they left on an inspection trip of similar surface water storage in Canton and Youngstown.

"We want to know just how far we can go in allowing boating, fishing, building of cottages and other types of recreation," Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said

The mayor said today's trip was only the beginning of a complete study of the rules and regulations covering such matters. "We plan to go to Columbus later," he said," and I'd like to visit Lima too."

Vaughn explained he and other officials wanted to be certain what the state board of health would allow so that proper restrictions could be applied from the start.

"We'd hate for the thing to get out of hand and wind up with a condemnation by the state authorities," the mayor explained.

Vaughn was accompanied on the trips today by Charles Shultz and Fred Miller, of the city council water committee; B. V. BeVier, sanitary engineer, and Earl T. Garrison, service-safety director.

The group planned to visit the Akron water superintendent this morning and officials in Youngstown this afternoon.

Tax Placed On Ballot

Cite Need For Improvements

TIRO—In a move designed to improve the education facilities of Tiro, the board of education has voted to submit a 5 mill school levy at the fall election.

One school board member pointed out that the 5-mill levy would absorb the present 2-mill levy. Thus, the board member explained, the proposed levy would add only three mills to the present rate.

Another education official said: "We have kept our teaching standards up at the expense of our building. We have to make some improvements or see our school lose it present high rating."

If the proposed levy carries, it would require $5 on every $1,000 property valuation.

M'Gregor Raps 'Wasted Time'

Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district today deplored the waste of time spent by Congress in Washington during the special session of the 80th Congress.

McGregor asserted that the Senate filibuster on the poll tax legislation, "wastes the time of every member of the House of Representatives."

"I would stay here and see what could be done regarding the high cost of living and inflation," McGregor said, "but if the Senate filibuster continues, I am sure I could do more good, for the people of my district, at home than I could here."

Commenting on President Truman's speech to the joint session, McGregor said: "If we gave all the powers to the President that he requests, our power would be gone Legislation won't stop high prices."

The new sales tax law, passed July 22 by the special session of the Ohio general assembly, is expected to be signed by Governor Thomas J. Herbert tomorrow. It becomes effective August 1.

It has been estimated that Mansfield area residents will save approximately $360,000 per year.

Merchants have been asked to take a complete inventory of their sales tax stamps tomorrow. In reporting their sales for the second half of the year they will make one report on the month of July, under the old law, and another report for the remaining five months under the new law.

Sales of 41 cents and over are not affected. The tax is the same as before. And, of course, the first 40 cents of a sale cannot be deducted in figuring a tax.

The tax rate on purchases from 41 to 70 cents inclusive is two cents; from 71 cents through $1.08, three cents; $1.09 through $1.40, four cents, and so on according to the familiar tax scale.

New School Plan Urged

Dr. Alan F. Griffin, associate professor of education at Ohio State university, addressed Mansfield Kiwanis club members at their noon luncheon meeting Thursday on the "Controversial Issues in the School" and advocated a new education program.

At the meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Dr. Griffin told of the difficulty faced by teachers conducting classes in the discussion of controversial issues.

"Every young person in childhood is influenced by their parents prejudices including religious, and political preferences," Dr. Griffin said.

"This has always been true. I learned that way, you learned that way and it is the natural source of information of a child. We must acquaint students with methods of determining their own conclusions concerning a controversial issue," he said.

A. G. Earnshaw, Kiwanis club president, presided and Dr. Robert Scott served as program chairman for the meeting.

'WINDOW SHOPPING'—

A Mansfield woman was shopping downtown yesterday afternoon when she suddenly noticed that her three-year-old daughter had wandered off. A search of the store proved fruitless until, a while later, when the adventuresome little girl was found "window shopping." She had gotten into a display window through a door apparently left open by a window trimmer.

Police Discover Hide-Out

Youths Held; Parts Found

Two young Mansfield "bicycle racketeers," who allegedly traded a stolen bike for a shack "hide-out" north of the city, were scheduled to appear before Juvenile Judge S. H. Cramer at 2 p. m. today.

The boys, aged 14 and 16, were picked up at Wadsworth yesterday by Mansfield detectives who said the boys attempted to break into a Wadsworth home Wednesday night.

Through statements from the 16-year-old, believed the "follower" of the pair, detectives discovered 11 stripped - down pedal and motor bikes in a cabin shack in a Bowman street woods north of the Empire Steel plant. Detectives believe the thefts date back to June 29.

Meanwhile, four Mansfielders who made "business deals" on the stolen cycles with the boys, will be investigated, detectives said.

Officers said both boys have police records. The 14-year-old, believed to be the "leader" in the racket, was picked up on a bike theft charge when 12 years old.

BUY HIDE-OUT

Police investigation disclosed that the hide-out, at which the youths kept their stolen loot, was obtained by selling a bicycle frame and parts of other bikes to a Mansfield man, who in turn gave them the cabin-shack.

Three other instances where parts of bikes were sold to Mansfielders were discovered, police said. A motor from one of the four motor bikes stolen by the youths was sold to a man for the purpose of operating a buzz saw. Two other bicycle trades were made, officers said.

Police said the youths dismantled the bicycles, repainting fenders and scratching off serial numbers so that identification is almost impossible in some cases.

Apprehension of the youthful racketeers was brought about Wednesday night when a Wadsworth housewife became alarmed when the boys, who had sought refuge from a hard rain storm on her front porch, attempted to open the door to her home. Wadsworth police said the boys were riding stolen motor bikes, taken from Mansfield.

The 14-year-old, believed the ring-leader, resides on North Mulberry street. On April 24, 1945 he made his first appearance in juvenile court where he confessed to stealing a bicycle. He was put on probation for six months.

On Oct. 12, 1945 he was found guilty of ransacking cars. The boy admitted the charge and probation was continued.

Record of the 16-year-old, who lives on Warren road, shows that on Feb. 1, 1946 he was found guilty of stealing a watch and purse, total value $40, from a locker at John Simpson junior high school. Twenty days later he was in court on a truancy charge.

On March 9, 1946, the boy confessed to stealing eight purses from lockers at the junior high school and was put on probation for 90 days.

On Aug. 30, 1946 he was found guilty of killing a coon dog and instructed to work 100 hours for the owner of the dog to pay for the cost of the animal.

On Oct. 8, 1946 he was again found guilty of molesting and beating a patrol boy at the junior high school and placed in the juvenile detention home for several days.

Although Gorman-Rupp is playing on the road tonight its field will be used for a North Central Ohio Inter-City league contest.

The Mt. Vernon Stone's Grill team will entertain the tough Ashland Indians here tonight at 8:30. The game was transferred to Mansfield because of conflict with the Knox county fair in Mt. Vernon.

Ashland will be favored to win its seventh straight decision in the second round of the league schedule. Last night, the Indians rapped Willard Elks, 11 to 2, in a league tussle. The Indians have copped nine in a row including non-loop jousts.

Farm Tools Forced To Go 2 Extra

BUCYRUS—The chances of a Mansfield team winning the district softball championship grew considerably better after last night's tilts in which three local teams scored victories.

Seven of 15 teams remaining in the tournament are from Mansfield.

Two teams from Upper Sandusky fell victim to the Mansfield onslaught last night. Ohio Sport Center whipped Baldrige Auto Service, 7-2, and VFW trimmed Bud's Sports, 6-3. Farm Tools had to go nine innings before edging the Crestline Eagles, 4-3, in the other contest.

ONLY BEHIND

Farm Tools was the only Mansfield team to be behind and that was not for long. The Toolmen fell to the rear when Crestline scored a run in the first inning but took over the lead with two in the last of the third. Both teams scored once in the fourth and Crestline tied it up in the top of the seventh.

Mansfield teams will not see tournament action again until next Tuesday. No games will be played tonight while on Monday the girls' finals and one men's game will be reeled off. Bagby Grabs 14th Victory

(By Associated Press)

Big Jim Bagby—without a victory for exactly a month—turned in his 14th triumph of the season last night as league leading Indianapolis blanked Columbus 6 to 0, to increase its margin over runnerup Milwaukee to 5½ games.

In other games, third-place St. Paul handed the skidding Milwaukee Brewers their eighth straight defeat, 7 to 3; Minneapolis downed Kansas City 8 to 4, and Toledo swept a double header from Louisville, 5 to 4, and 4 to 1.

Bagby limited Columbus to six hits—two each by Mike Natisin, Harvey Haddix and Don Thompson, the Indians collected 10 hits off Haddix. Left Fielder Eric Tipton batted in four runs with a single and a homer in St. Paul's win over Milwaukee.

CLEVELAND — Former coalminer Mike Little of Johnstown, Pa., Sunday night will seek his second straight local midget auto racing triumph at Sportsman park speedway, Bedford, in the weekly AAA sanctioned floodlighted program.

Whitfield Gunning For Double Victory

LONDON—(AP)—Mal Whitfield, the Ohio State sophomore who doubles as an army sergeant, has cut out for himself an Olympic task that, if successful, will place his name among the track and field immortals.

The powerfully built 23-year-old Negro middle distance runner is fully aware of the back-breaking schedule ahead of him.

Starting today he has to run three 800's in three days of competition, take a day's rest and then compete in four 400's in two days. This is all on the assumption he reaches the finals—and Whitfield is not only confident he'll reach the showdown race, he thinks he's going to win both.

After the individual double is finished, Mal is entered in the 1600-meter relay. Whether he runs for the U. S. team is dependent in great part on how the 6 foot, 165 pounder feels after his week-long efforts and also on whether track Coach Dean Cromwell thinks Whitfield can handle the two extra 400's.

Whitfield's ambition to become the first double winner in the middle distances of 400 and 800 has attracted the attention of other members of his squad. Many of his fellow runners think Mal is going to make it, mainly because of his strength and confidence.

ONE BIG OBSTACLE

There's one big obstacle in his path in the 400—Herb McKenley, a tall Jamaican who competed in the United States for Illinois and the Shore A. C. of New Jersey. While running and training in the States Herb set marks of 46 flat in the 440 and 45.9 in the 400 meters. These pending world records are almost incredible, but anyone who has seen McKenley move well out by the 300 yard mark can understand.

Whitfield's best time for the 440 is the 46.6 he ran in winning the U. S. Olympic final tryouts at Evanston. Yet, he feels he can take his friend McKenley.

It's no violation of a confidence to explain Mal's strategy. Other 400 meter men have the same plan—stay a yard or two behind McKenley during that terrible first 300 the Jamaican speeds and then "kick" hard around the last bend. Elmore Harris, who turned football pro, used to do that and was able to whip McKenley two years ago. Harris could run a 46.3 quarter, which gives a clearer picture how it's done. All McKenley's opponents have to do is keep up with him—and that's usually too much.

35 Casevs Trek To Indian Game

Thirty-five members of the Knights of Columbus will occupy box seats at the Indians-Red Sox game at Cleveland tonight.

Bob Schnug, chairman, announced that the group will leave by bus at 4 p. m. from the K. of C. home on Park avenue west.

Bob Regula Draws Hill Assignment

Manager Nick Weber of Mansfield Gorman-Rupp will send his ace, Bobby Regula, to the mound against the cellar-dwelling Routh Packers at Tiffin tonight.

Gorman-Rupp will be after its 14th North Central Ohio league victory against two setbacks. The Webermen will also be seeking their third straight victory since they were victorious in their other two games this week.

Marion, runnerup to Gorman-Rupp in the North Central Ohio league race, has a record of 12 victories and 5 defeats.

★

Gorman-Rupp will meet the Ashland Indians, their arch-rivals, at 8 p. m. tomorrow at Ashland. The game is a league contest, postponed from earlier in the season.

Gorman-Rupp and the Indians have split even in four games to date, the Mansfielders winning the two league games but dropping a pair of exhibitions.

Heafner Leading Open Golf Meet

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Clouting Clayton Heafner "enjoyed" only a one-stroke lead today as he and 19 other par-wreckers led a blue-ribbon field into the second round of the Western Open golf tournament.

The burly pro from Charlotte, N. C., scorched the sod yesterday as he fired a six-under-par 66 in the opening round. But Belter Ben Hogan, the favorite, was only one swing behind.

Gross and Swank Pitch No-Hit Tilt

Don Gross and Shelly Swank combined talents to pitch Zitzer's to a no-hit 7-2 victory over Yuncker's in a Hot Stove Major league game yesterday.

Gross pitched the first four innings and was touched for two runs without a hit in the second inning. A base on balls, an error, and infield outs produced both tallies.

Gross also had a big day at bat as he rapped out a double and home run in three times at bat.

The undefeated Sons of Herman Colts will meet K. of C. at 5:45 p. m. today at Liberty park.

STRANSKI ROUGH

John Stranski, Exchange club pitcher, allowed seven hits, fanned 13 and rapped out two singles himself to defeat the Odd Fellows, 5-4. Jack Plienger of the Odd Fellows, gave up four hits and struck out ten.

Marine Corps romped over Mitsch's 18-4, behind the three-hit pitching of Rahll in the other Junior league game.

Elementary league games went to Bowman, 19-4. over Bushnell, Woodland, 8-4, over West Fifth, and Grubaugh, 10-9, over Brinkerhoff.

Leading hitters were Carroll of Bowman who hit two doubles and a homer, Carbetta of West Fifth, a double and homer, and Christ who rapped two home runs and a single for Grubaugh.

Browns Drilling On Fundamentals

BOWLING GREEN—(INS)—The Cleveland Browns stepped through their fourth day of practice at Bowling Green today with the emphasis on fundamentals.

When Coach Paul Brown arrived at the Bowling Green camp Sunday, he made his familiar opening speech.

"One of the things we do here is to teach the fundamentals of football all over again. We want you to work hard at them. We're only trying to improve your play," the Cleveland mentor said.

Each farm worker now produces enough agriculture products to support himself and more than 13 other persons.

First Congregational became the winningest team in the Church softball league last night when it romped over United Brethren, 18 to 0.

The victory was the seventh in eight games for the winners. Park Avenue Baptist leads the loop with six straight wins. Osborn blanked the Brethrens with three hits while six of his mates each got a pair of blows.

In the other game on the card, First Presbyterian scored four times in the fifth to defeat B'nai B'rith, 10 to 7. It was the third win of the season for First Presbyterian.

New York Pitchers Laying Goose Eggs; Giants Record Third Shutout In Row

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

What happened to the New York Giants pitching staff?

Spiders spin cobwebs in the Polo Grounds bullpen. Starters finish without relief. Fireman Kenny Trinkle doesn't even make the box scores.

This strange situation has existed for almost a week. Three straight shutouts by Jarry Jansen, Clint Hartung and Dave Koslo have left the National league reeling.

Seven complete games in eight pitching starts have lifted the club past the St. Louis Cardinals into third place. The hurlers throw shutouts like honest-to-goodness pitchers and not the humpty dumpty throwers they are supposed to be.

Koslo, particularly, has come into his own in recent days. Two straight no-run jobs, including yesterday's 5-0 effort against Cincinnati, stamp him as a most important factor in the club's pennant hopes. Before that he hadn't thrown a complete game since May 9.

Walker Cooper eased Koslo's task yesterday with a bases-loaded homer in the first after the Giants already had scored one off Ken Raffensberger. It turned out to be more than enough, despite four straight singles by the Reds' Danny Litwhiler.

Brooklyn clubbed the Cardinals, permitting New York to take over third place. Neither club gained on front-running Boston which edged Pittsburgh, 2-1. The Braves' lead remains intact at 5½ games.

It was the 12th victory in 16 games for the Brooks since Burt Shotton returned as manager.

Bill Voiselle, who flopped with the Giants after a brilliant freshman season, collected win No. 11 for Boston. He managed to weather several dangerous situations and drove home the decisive run with one of his rare hits. Mel Queen was tagged with his third defeat in the second when he was chased during a four-hit attack that netted only one run.

The Phillies made it two out of three under Manager Eddie Sawyer, subduing Chicago, 7-4. Schoolboy Rowe hurled the Phils to their nod in the odd game of the series, although he gave way to Walt Dubiel in the eighth. Despite 15 Cub hits, the Phils hung a second setback on Doyle Lade. Ralph Caballero, who played under Sawyer in Utica (N. Y.) last season led the attack with three hits that drove in three runs.

Pitcher Jack Kramer and Rookie Bill Goodman got into the home run act for the first time this season as Boston swamped Detroit, 8-1, in the only American league game.

As a result the Red Sox opened up a half game lead over the idle Philadelphia A's on the strength of Kramer's 10th straight pitching success.

The Red Sox, making their first start since their 13-game winning streak was smashed, got their hits in clusters off Virgil Trucks.

Cleveland Opens Four-Game Series With Leading Boston

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox open round two of the battle for first place tonight at the lakefront stadium.

A crowd of some 70,000 is expected to watch the Tribe attempt to avenge the seven straight defeats they suffered at the hands of the Bosox.

In order to overtake the Red Sox, the Redskins will have to take three games in the four-game series. The Tribe now is two games behind the leading Sox, with Philadelphia in second place, one-half game behind.

Manager Lou Boudreau has chosen Gene Bearden, who has shut out the Beantowners twice this year, to hurl for the Tribesmen, while Joe McCarthy will send Mel Parnell to the mound for the Sox. Both are lefthanders.

The two clubs are booked for another tussle tomorrow afternoon with Bob Feller doing the chucking. Bob Lemon and Sam Zoldak are slated to pitch the doubleheader Sunday.

Ohio Future Fish Plans Announced

By JAMES DAILEY

COLUMBUS—(UP)—With the doldrums and dog-days slowing down Ohio's one million fishermen somewhat, the conservation department has picked this time to tell us of its plans for the future of fishing in Ohio.

The conservation division, in announcing its objectives for the coming years, said it would first maintain already-existing good habitat for fish and secondly provide more fish by nurturing them by natural means.

The division's plans call for a minimum of artificial propagation, just enough to provide brook stock to support the existing natural stock.

MAKE RESEARCH

It also will do more research to support the production program and try to permit the harvesting only of usable surplus to safeguard the reproductive stock. And it will try to control coarse and undesirable fish to provide better conditions for game fish.

The division's program calls for stabilization of streams to control silt; pollution control; flood control and water conservation.

It believes its policy of building headwater lakes of from forty to five hundred acres is the best, quickest and most economical way to provide better fishing. Fishing license funds are used to construct these great fishing areas.

And fishing license funds are pouring into state coffers as never before. Harry F. West, chief of the accounting and budget section of the division, said he estimated that one million persons will have purchased fishing licenses by the end of the 1948 season. He said another quarter million could be added to that total if fishermen under 18 and fishermen who fish on their own land, were considered. Neither class needs licenses.

It is estimated that Ohioans spend $175,000 for live bait every year and that they fish in about 500 lakes and 12,000 miles of streams.

Americans Feature Olympic Qualifying

By DAVIS J. WALSH

LONDON—(INS)—America's three spring-legged high jumpers soared over the qualifying height today and entered the Olympic finals.

With the bar set at 6:1⅝ inches, Dwight Eddelman of Illinois qualified easily in his preliminary group.

George Stanich of the Los Angeles A. C., who placed second in the American tryouts, passed his test in the second group—rolling over the bar on every upward graduation.

But Verne McGrew of Rice, America's best though but 18 years old, ran into difficulty and barely qualified.

On the "must" height of 6:1⅝ inches, McGrew failed twice.

His performance thus far was considerably below his winning American tryout jump of 6:8¼ inches—better than the Olympic record.

McGrew's last try was a painstaking anxious effort, but he made it.

In all, 20 high jumpers qualified for this afternoon's final which will decide the Olympic titlist.

FIRST IN SWIM

Keith Carter of Purdue became the first American to compete in the swimming competition—and won his trial in the 100-meter freestyle in 58.2 seconds.

Walter Ris of Iowa, swimming easily, won his heat in 58.1 seconds, compared with the Olympic record of 57.5.

Alan Ford of New Haven, the third American free-style entrant and the holder of the world record for the 100-meter free-style at 55.9, won his heat by a yard over Ty El Gamal of Egypt. His time was a slow 59.2.

The first two in each of the six heats and the four fastest losers qualified for the semi-final.

At the Empire pool a trio of American springboard divers took first, second and third places in the first round.

With the compulsory events completed, Bruce Harlan of Ohio State was out in front at the Empire pool.

Dr. Sammy Lee, the Korean-American of Los Angeles, was second; Miller Anderson, another Ohio State diver, was third.

CAGE TEAM WINS

At Harringay the United States basketball team opened its preliminary trial against Switzerland, winning easily, 86 to 21.

Earlier the Philippines beat Iraqi, 102 to 30.

In its first test the American basketball team started indifferently but quickly got the upper hand. The score at the end of the half was U. S. 34, Switzerland 9.

Bob Kurland, the seven-foot Phillips Oilers star, was sent off the court in a brush with Georges Stockly of the Swiss team. Stockly also was banished.

Jesse Renick, another contribution from the Oilers, was top scorer in the first half with 12 points.

In the second half R. C. Pitts won the honors with 14. This second semester featured two double fouls in wild play.

Madison Baseball Team Gets Third Straight Shutout

Madison township baseball pitchers are emulating the New York Giants these days.

Don Walker turned in the Rams third straight shutout yesterday as he blanked Bellville, 5 to 0, in a County league game at Bellville. The victory clinched the county league championship for Harold Snyder's team, although it still has two games to play.

Walker struck out 14 and walked four while his mates collected nine hits off Tod Brokaw. Bob Wilson led the attack with a double and two singles.

Czech Davis Cup Team Rips Sweden

PRAGUE —(U.P.)— Czechoslovakia's Davis Cup tennis squad today looked forward to a trip to the United States after dumping Sweden in the European zone finals, 4 to 1.

Corum's Column

By BILL CORUM

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(INS)—This is a report, of sorts, on the Olympic games in London, with the reporter operating by radar. Which is to say that he couldn't be more out of touch with the 14th Olympiad if he were in Timbuctoo.

Surely nothing lasts for 2,000 years without having some sort of hold on the inherited interest and imagination of man.

Without wishing to impose any Greek, or other kind of philosophy on you, I can't help believing that the better all nationalities know each other, the better the chance for an eventual universal peace.

I also hold it to be a happy circumstance that thus far, at any rate, this has been the most harmonious of modern Olympiads if the games can continue to their end next month in the same spirit of friendly sportsmanship.

★

LET'S ALL HOPE that the United States team will win its full share of victories at Wembley—as it is sure of doing really—but that we also take a defeat here and there that will be good for our souls.

We know that we are going to have a bit of the best of it in these games. On the whole our athletes have had more and better food and training conditions.

So that, if we lost an event now and then that we are expected to win, it won't hurt us too much, I feel. These are just sports events. Just another foot race or hammer throw.

It isn't necessary that we "schneider" the layout in order to do all right. Which we will, be sure.

★

A FELLOW doesn't have to be a track and field filbert to know that the London games are not apt to produce any Jesse Owenses. We have some right lightfooted fellows in the right tight little isle. Flyers such as Mel Patton, California's newest "fastest human" to follow in the spike tracks of the famed Charley Paddock.

Then there's old Barney Ewell, who has been running almost as long as Johnny Walker has been walking. Also Mal Whitfield, a middle distance man, and Harrison Dillard, who failed to qualify in the high hurdles, but who might turn that setback into a blessing by upsetting the better spotlighted sprints.

Not to mention Patton's deep shadow, Lloyd La Beach of Panama and the long striding 400-meter star, Herb McKenley from Jamaica. Not the horse park on Long Island. The other one.

But when all is said and done there won't be anybody in there grabbing three firsts and running on the winning relay team the way Jesse Owens did at Berlin.

Junior Baseball Clubs Play Under Lights at G-R

Before a small crowd of approximately 100 persons, four teams of the Hot Stove Elementary baseball league put on a pleasing exhibition of junior ball last night at the Gorman-Rupp field.

Newman handed Prospect its second league loss, 11 to 4 and St. Peter's won over Bowman, 11 to 6. Eddie Deeds of Newman allowed only three hits and struck out 13 while Larry Zartman of Prospect gave up 10 hits but fanned 14.

Leading batter was Jaynes of Newman with a double, triple and home run.

Galion Tavern Owners Join Forces to Battle Gambling

Crawford Grand Jury Recesses

'No Gambling Evidence Found'

Tavern owners in Crawford county are banding together in an all-out effort to "put an end" to the liquor-gambling situation.

Liquor permit holders have already joined forces in Galion, in a concerted move to curb "high pressure" tactics from gambling interests.

State liquor agents in the area, charged with "coercing" dealers by many tavern operators, have been exonerated by the state liquor enforcement office in Columbus.

The dealers, however, are preparing to deal with the gambling interests themselves. The third meeting of Galion liquor permit holders was held last night.

NO INDICTMENTS

The new group expressed amazement that the grand jury in Crawford county recessed without making any indictments.

The Erie county grand jury also found no evidence of gambling in state-license taverns, Liquor Director Dale Dunifon said yesterday.

Citizens were invited to appear if they had any evidence. When no "first-hand" information was forthcoming, both the Crawford and Erie juries recessed but were subject to recall.

Permit holders, complaining that state agents were "shaking down" tavern owners for protection, noted that two liquor agents were found guilty to soliciting bribes in Mahoning county.

The two former agents—Joseph Holland of Cleveland and Leonard Strauss of Middletown—have appealed the case.

Meanwhile, Dunifon said Donald T. Geyer, department enforcement chief, would continue his investigation in Richland and Crawford counties.

Name Crawford Draft Board

BUCYRUS—Governor Thomas Herbert's advisory committee in Crawford county toay appointed a five-man draft board.

Named to the county's board were: Lloyd Adams, of Bucyrus, a veteran of World War I and caretaker of the American Legion home; Jay G. Lee of Galion, railroader; Moulton Zewalt of Crestline, a schoolteacher; F. F. DeRoche of New Washington, a World War I veteran and John Shealy of New Washington, a farmer.

The advisory committee included Common Pleas Judge C. U Ahl, Probate Judge Constance R Keller and A. D. Neff, a retired farmer.

NEW FARM MACHINE

Daniels Flatly Says 'Guilty' To Three Murder Charges

lumbus for the murder of Earl Ambrose, a tavern owner, and for armed robbery.

Lutz said Bartlett told Judge McNeill Franklin county would "have Daniels in the pen by the first of September if you let us have him."

The Richland prosecutor said Van Wert and Seneca county officials agreed early to turn Daniels over to Richland county because they believed Richland had a better case against him.

While Daniels blamed three of the six slayings on West, he bragged following his capture a week ago today that he (Daniels) shot the Niebels to death "for revenge."

Van Wert county authorities decided not to hold Daniels any longer after physicians said Sgt. Leonard C. Conn of the Van Wert police force would recover from bullet wounds he suffered in a fight with West when the gunman was killed near Van Wert.

During yesterday's conference in Van Wert county common pleas court, civil actions were filed against Daniels by Sgt. Conn and Game Warden Frank Friemoth, who also was wounded during the roadblock shooting. Both demanded damages and hospital expenses.

A suit also was filed in Van Wert county probate court to have the estate of West administered in Van Wert county.

Berlin Cool To Russian Food Offer

City Government Rapped By Soviets

BERLIN —(AP)— A Soviet offer to feed all Berlin drew little response from Germans in western sectors of the blockaded city today and the Russians loosed new attacks on the anti-communist city government.

Informants in Moscow, meanwhile, said the chances are good that a Big Four session to thresh out the Berlin crisis may take place in Paris in September, if prospective talks between envoys of the western allies and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov go off satisfactorily.

Russians in Berlin charged that the city administration was "sabotaging" Soviet feeding efforts, scheduled to begin Sunday, by preventing the unloading of imported grains in Berlin's barge harbors

City officials denied the charge and an American military government spokesman termed it "a lot of poppycock."

The American spokesman said neither the city government, nor the three western military governments had placed any hindrances in the way of Russian food or forbidden any western Berliner to accept such food.

He said the Russians were miffed by the apparent failure of their feeding gesture and now are seeking to inspire a public revolt against the elected city government to advance their schemes to gain communist control over all Berlin.

The western Berlin press reported that in three days of registration only 3,800 western Berliners had solicited ration cards in the Soviet sector. The three western sectors have a population of more than 2,000,000 who are being fed through the British-American air lift

Indians Keep Iowa Society Prexy Busy

ASHLAND — When the Iowa Society of Ohio convenes Sunday at the Ashland county fairgrounds, members will have to get along somehow without their president.

The society's president will be tied up with some business at Cleveland in connection with the Cleveland Indians doubleheader.

The president is Bob Feller.

Orville G. Welsh of Ashland, secretary of the society, has arranged a program consisting of a noon picnic dinner and a concert by the Scottish Highlanders band of Iowa university, plus sports contests. Governors of both Iowa and Ohio have been invited to the event which is expected to bring former Iowans here from all over the state.

City to Start Filling Clear Fork Reservoir In 2 Months

Dam Site Nearing Completion

Work on Pumping Station Pushed

By SHELDON BINN

Earth-moving operations on the Clear Fork dam are scheduled for completion this week, and workers then will push construction of the high-lift pumping station at the foot of Cook road.

The $428,000 earthen dam being built for the city by the Roger Au company is 44 feet high and will hold back four billion four hundred million gallons of water.

Work on the dam began in the spring of 1947, but heavy rains held up the operations until this year. With completion of the earth-moving operations, workmen are finishing the construction of the dam by covering the inner side of the dam with slag, or "rip-rap."

The slag is put down on the slope of the dam to prevent the water from washing the earth away.

Company officials estimated that the impounding of water will be started in two months when seeding and general clearing operations are completed.

STATION THIRD DONE

Work on the high-lift pumping station being done by the Richland Construction company is between one-third and one-half completed.

It is this building, along with the 24-inch pipeline running from the pumping station to the Woodland reservoir, that will give the city its first benefits from the $2,400,000 Clear Fork waterworks project.

As soon as the pumping station is complete, the pipeline will be hooked into it on the south and the Woodland reservoir on the north.

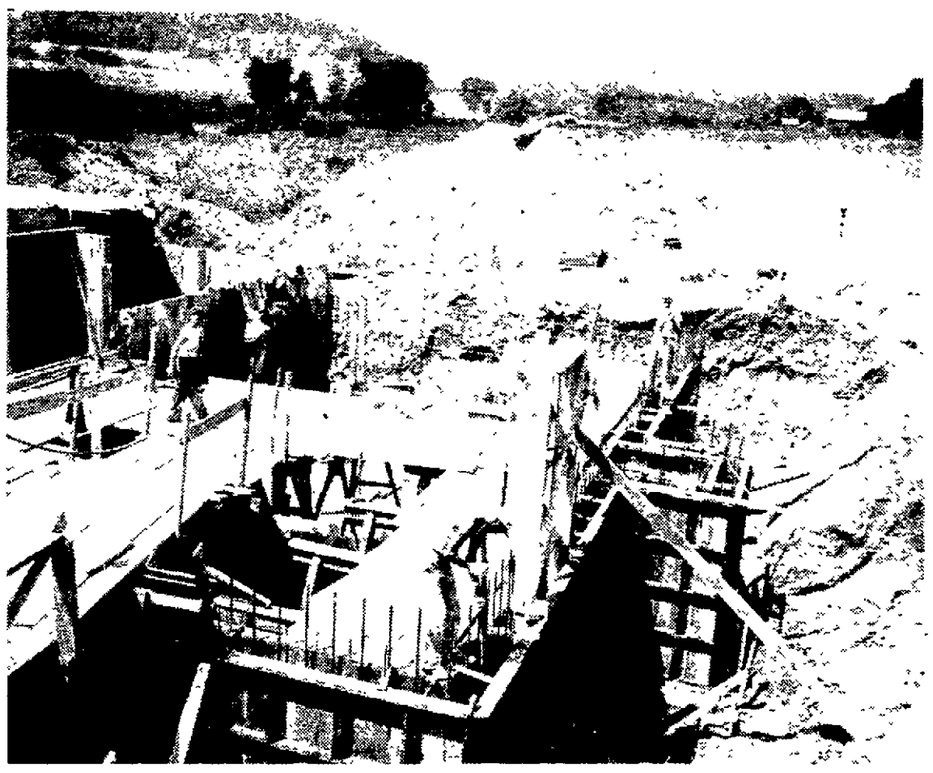
Then water, normally carried from the eight wells in the Maxwell field through 12 and 14-inch lines to the Maxwell station and to Woodland, will move through the new station and 24-inch pipeline.

Consulting engineers on the project have estimated that more than 1,000,000 gallons of water will be available daily.

While Mansfield is being protected from any water shortage by the additional supply made available by the new station, the city will initiate the third and final phase of the Clear Fork water supply project.

This includes a filtration plant to be built adjacent to the high-lift pumping station, a raw water pipe line to carry the water from the dam to the filtration plant and a low-lift pumping station at the site of the dam to move the raw water.

Plans will be drawn and bids on "phase three" of the Clear Fork project will be asked for in the near future, city spokesmen said. The $1,200,000 recently acquired by floating of second mortgage revenue bonds is earmarked for that work.



NEW PUMPING STATION—Construction work on the high-lift pumping station of the Clear Fork water works project is between one-third and one-half complete. Workers are shown working on the walls of the $130,000 building located at the intersection of Cook road and the Lexington-Alta road.

Ex-Communist Spy Testifies

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today a Senate investigation committee heard testimony this week by Miss Elizabeth Bentley, "a one time communist espionage agent."

Ferguson said in a statement that Miss Bentley appeared before the committee behind closed doors on Tuesday and Wednesday. He made no mention of the testimony given the committee.

William Rogers, counsel for the Ferguson investigators, said Miss Bentley was questioned by staff members. He declined to say what, if any, information she had given.

Walter Lippmann Speaks

Promises Reveal Candidate's Sincerity

There is a simple test by which the public can find out who is trying to deal sincerely and intelligently with the inflation.

Does the candidate begin or end his oration with a clear explanation and a stern warning that if his program is effective it must be painful to farmers, wage earners, businessmen and bankers?

Does he say that to stop the inflation is to stop the boom, that in order to bring down prices it will be necessary to reduce prosperity, profits, business expansion, public works, sales, and the market for labor?

Does he put the people on notice that they cannot continue to enjoy the benefits of inflation—that is to say full employment, high wages, booming markets, high profits—and at the same time be able to buy at lower prices everything they are trying to buy?

If the public man says none of this, if he believes or pretends to believe that he can reduce the prevailing prices without reducing the current incomes of farmers, workers, and businessmen, if, in other words, he talks as if the people could have their cake and eat it, too, he is deceiving himself.

The inflation is due to the fact that while American production is just about at maximum capacity, the purchasing power at the disposal of consumers and investors is being increased.

It is impossible to increase the production of goods. Steel, mining, textiles, oil, paper, durable goods plants, the construction industry, are operating at about their capacity. Production could be increased only if there were more labor, if there were more steel, more raw materials, and more transportation. There is no more available, and in the short run, more cannot be made available.

Therefore, the high price level cannot now be reduced by increased production. It can be reduced only by decreasing the demand. But measures to decrease the demand will be painful to those whose spending power is reduced, and they will, no matter what the sentiment against the high cost of living, be extremely unpopular.

HARDSHIPS NECESSARY

To reduce spending power it would be necessary to raise taxes, to reduce consumer credit, that is to say installment buying, to reduce bank loans which finance business expansion and inventories, to arrest public works by the cities, the states, and the federal government, to make money dearer, to lower the support of farm prices, to raise the ceiling on hours of work and lower the floor under wages.

Because a policy of disinflation is inherently painful, unpopular,—and dangerous in that it may get out of hand and bring on a deflation—no free government is able to disinflate except with the united support of its leading political parties.

A disinflation can be carried out only if both parties share the responsibility, only if neither party can exploit the consequences against the other. No one, therefore, who is serious and sincere about it, would make it a partisan issue on the eve of an election.

The very fact that he made it a partisan issue is almost conclusive evidence that he does not expect to deal with the realities of the problem, and that he merely wants a talking point.

Thus if Mr. Truman expected to act at once and if he knew what the effects of action would be, his first concern would be to make sure that he had an agreed program to which the Republicans were committed.

For no one would want to break the boom on his own responsibility alone. But a candidate would be only too glad to create an illusion that he could have reduced the cost of living without breaking the boom.

To create that illusion, he must ask for powers which he will not have to use. The way to ask for them without getting them is to ask for them in such a way that the other party is almost certain not to grant them—that is to say by making it a personal triumph for himself and a public humiliation for them if they do grant them.

If Mr. Truman wanted the powers because his first concern was the public interest, he would recognize that to get them he must conciliate, not antagonize, the Congress.

He would make it plain that to use those powers when he got them, he would need the full cooperation of both parties and the whole people.

In dealing with foreign affairs that is what he has done. There the intention is sincere and public spirited. But as respects inflation he is pursuing an exactly opposite course, making demands on Congress which are formulated and posed in a way which makes agreement improbable, which makes national unity impossible.

That is because on inflation his intentions are partisan, are directed not to a remedy for inflation but to the making of a campaign issue.

Costs Climb 4.1% Since November

Biggest Increase Preceded 1947

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Living costs, measured by the Bureau of Labor statistics, advanced 4.1 per cent between November, 1947 and mid-June, 1948.

President Truman, through Paul A. Porter, asked Congress yesterday for authority to roll back prices for essential cost of living items. He proposed the level of November, 1947, be used, with consideration given to changes in profits, costs, speculative fluctuations and other factors since then.

Thus the roll back wouldn't necessarily equal the exact percentage of increase in living costs shown by the bureau's figures.

These figures show that while the cost of living advanced only 4.1 per cent between November, 1947, and mid-June, 1948, food prices advanced 5.6 per cent.

Actually the sharpest increases in the living costs occurred before November, 1947.

Between June, 1946, when wartime price controls ended and November, 1947, living costs advanced 23.7 per cent. In that period food prices advanced 39.2 per cent.

The consumers' price index issued monthly by the Bureau of Labor statistics stood at 171.7 on June 15 this year. This is the last figure available and is a record high.

The index in November, 1947, stood at 164.9.

The index measures living costs for moderate income families in the larger cities. It covers such items as food, apparel, rent, fuel and electricity, and house furnishings.

The years 1935-39 equal 100 in the index. Here are some index comparisons for November 1947 and mid-June 1948:

	Nov. 1947	June 1948
All items	164.9	171.7
All foods	202.7	214.1
Apparel	190.2	196.9
Rent	115.2	117.0
Fuel, electricity	126.9	132.6
House furnishings	188.9	194.8
Miiscellaneous	143.0	147.5

Urge Ohio Aid For Widow Of 2 Victims of Killers

CLEVELAND — (CP) — Ohio members of the legislature and prominent clubwomen Thursday asked Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and the state to award financial aid to two widows whose husbands were murdered in the recent crime wave by Robert M. Daniels and John C. West.

The two victims were James M. Smith, young Tiffin farmer, and Orville Taylor, Niles, Mich., truck driver and father of four small children.

"Ohio has a moral obligation to Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Taylor in that it released West and Daniels on parole," Rep. James M. Carney (D-Cuyahoga county) said.

Similar views were expressed by Mrs. James Keyes jr., of Cleveland Heights, and Mrs. F. H. McCombs, of Cleveland.

Mrs. Keyes, chairman of the Youth Conservation committee of the Federation of Women's clubs, said, "The state shirked its responsibility in the first place. It is no alibi that the state is not financially able to provide better care and supervision for such people as Daniels and West."

"Money can't take the place of Mrs. Smith's and Mrs. Taylor's husbands, but there should be some restitution," said Mrs. McCombs, past chairman of the citizenship committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs here.

In Columbus, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said the matter was one for legislative decision, but indicated his opposition to it as establishing a costly precedent.

"Such an appropriation would be contrary to all previous precedent," he said. "Unless a clear claim is made against the state it has been the policy not to grant any such payments."

Daniels To Be Tried Here

ONCE AGAIN Robert Murl Daniels is behind prison bars—this time not as a youthful offender subject to processes designed for reformation, but as a confessed brutal murderer of six innocent persons, including Ohio State Reformatory Farm Superintendent John E. Niebel, his wife and daughter.

Lodged in the Richland county jail late yesterday afternoon, it is regrettable that this ancient structure is not better suited to the needs for temporary housing of such a desperate criminal as this Reformatory parolee has turned out to be. There dare not be an instant of carelessness in guarding this prisoner, not only to prevent a possible escape attempt but also to make sure that he has no opportunity to end his own life, as such a psychopath and exhibitionist might choose to do.

In gaining custody over Daniels, the enormity of his triple murder in Richland county is recognized by officials of the other counties into which he and his equally kill-crazy associate, John C. West, another Reformatory parolee, carried their mad orgy of slaughter.

Responsibility for safe keeping, trial and sentence is thus placed upon officials of this county—and expeditiousness of action will help, in some small degree, to serve warning to other actual or potential criminals that justice moves rapidly in Richland county, and that Mansfield prides itself on being a law abiding community in which an earnest effort is being made to provide an environment that will prevent development of criminal traits in its young people.

It was last September 24 that Daniels was permitted to leave the Reformatory on parole, and it is the faulty judgment evidenced by this parole, coupled with lack of supervision thereafter, that is now leading to what it is hoped will be a much more efficient and dependable parole system than has come into vogue in Ohio.

What appears needed is a complete revamping of the state's penal methods—with specific reference to deplorable conditions disclosed in the Reformatory, where normal youths convicted for relatively minor offenses, are thrown in contact with a motley array of inmates who are classed as dullards, perverts, or possessing psychopathic tendencies, as was the case with Daniels.

Self-Help Expected of Beneficiaries

DOINGS at the European Recovery Program meeting in Paris seem to say that the crucial test for the Marshall Plan will be not in what things are bought with the funds, not in what the countries which get these things do with them, but in what else they do to contribute to recovery of Europe.

In his opening statement to the meeting, Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the program, told representatives of European nations that they are expected to carry out a program of their own of co-ordination for combined economic recovery. He said it must be a program of action, not of plans.

Such a test seems reasonable enough. As a practical matter, it is quite likely that future financial support of the Marshall Plan depends on readily visible signs that the nations of Europe are really working together to build up their economy. If such signs have not appeared by spring, Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Marshall and other friends of the program might have a difficult time persuading Congress to continue liberal appropriations for it.

Co-ordinated planning and work among the countries of Europe is one of the most valuable results which could come from this recovery program. The desired economic normalcy is a needed and good goal. But the principle of working together is a higher one. If the many differing peoples of Europe can work effectively toward a common economic end, perhaps they can find other common causes, too.

Diversified Vacation Reading Best

SOME PEOPLE seem to think of "summer reading" as consisting only of the lightest fiction. But summer is one of the best times to read a really solid book or two. For young people in school or college, there is a vacation time. Though they have jobs, there are still hours, a few a week, when the mind can well be occupied with what used to be called an "improving" book.

The elders, too, can stand very well a plan of reading which embraces some of the great books of the ages. The woman who likes good radio music will find herself enjoying to the full a history of music, which tells her about the origins of various instruments, how orchestras grew out of little groups of strings. If she's thinking about a new house or an addition to the one she has, a competent book on architectural design might be a joy.

The man who is interested in politics would find Plato's "Republic" or Carl Van Doren's "Great Rehearsal" much to his mind.

And there really is value in this business of making yourself read a book which is hard going. Just as paddling a canoe through difficult water gives a man a sense of power in mind and body, so reading the "hard book" gives him a sense of power over the mental muscles. They, too, respond to exercise; soon the hard book turns easy and its delights are lasting.

If the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of 214 for food means a dollar's worth of food can be bought for $2.14, the bureau owes it to the public to reveal the name of the store where it can be done.

A pessimistic observer of the political scene says he would be more interested in "throwing the rascals out" if he was sure it wouldn't result in throwing other rascals in.

Thrift is defined by one observant person as "something the other fellow should practice so he will have some extra money you can borrow."

Scientists say there are eight basic kinds of noses—exclusive of the one that gets into everyone else's business.

What Some Other People Are Saying

DeWitt Mackenzie's Column

Is Tito Strong Enough To Defy Stalin?

ONE of the outstanding puzzles of the moment revolves about the ultimate fate of Yugoslavia's dynamic red dictator, Marshal Tito, who is in Moscow's very bad graces.

It's a month now since the powerful bolshevist Cominform went to the extreme of publicly denouncing Tito's leadership of his country and declaring that unless he hewed to the Moscow line he must get out. A month is a long, long time for a communist to keep going after Moscow has turned thumbs down and given the nod to the headsman.

Still Tito not only hangs on but seems stronger than ever with his followers. Why? That query struggles on the crook of a question mark like a fish on a hook.

•

Has this Tito—who is adored by his followers but is labeled a villain by many of the outside world—just been lucky in thus far evading punishment by Moscow, or are we witnessing the emergence of another of those outstanding dictators who have made history in the past couple of generations?

Probably Moscow is trying to figure that out, too, for Tito's defiance of the Soviet dictatorship is close to unique among top-leaders of the Red world revolution. This is the first break in the solidarity of the communist slave states of eastern Europe—a break which could work irreparable damage to Russia's drive to communize the entire continent.

He expressed deep affection for Comrade Stalin and swore to follow the party lines—but by both word and deed he has made it clear that he is the big boss in Yugoslavia — and his influence reaches into neighboring states.

Ample support for this stand has been given during the current meeting of the Yugoslav communist party whose delegates listened to an eight-hour opening speech of defense and defiance by Tito and cheered themselves hoarse.

It looks as though the Cominform holds that Tito has committed the unpardonable sin of poking his head up too high. That's a dangerous game to play with Moscow, and he isn't likely to get away with it unless, as remarked before, he is another of those rare personalities who possess supreme leadership.

As generalissimo of relatively small Yugoslavia, Tito hasn't had the big field of, say, a Hitler in which to demonstrate his leadership. However, Moscow accuses him of aiming at a Balkan federation, and that would give him a great sphere of activity.

That, of course, is what Moscow is afraid of. The Yugoslav communist congress was told Wednesday that all plans for a Balkan federation have been dropped. Maybe, but the proof of the plum duff is in the eating thereof, and we shall see.

Tito isn't going to give up his dictatorship without a struggle. And he is tough. He also follows the code that communism can do no wrong, as witness the brutal manner in which five American airmen were shot down over Yugoslavia in cold blood on the ground that they were violating Yugoslav sovereignty.

The airmen had been forced off their course by adverse weather but Tito backed up his troops until he got a red-hot ultimatum and not only quit such tactics but agreed to pay indemnities.

The 56-year-old Tito — born Josip Broz—is a peasant's son who has pulled himself up by his bootstraps. He distinguished himself in the late war by leading a partisan army against the German invaders of Yugoslavia and became such a thorn in the side of the nazis that a reward of 100,000 marks was placed on his head.

Tito acquired his communism in World War I and inflicted it on Yugoslavia during the second global conflict. Now we wait to see whether his stature is great enough so that he can defy Moscow and get away with it.

Washington Calling

Wages, Prices, Profits

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN THE rowdy game of political chess being played out between Republicans and Democrats at this special session of Congress the President's message is now the field of action. Republicans are finding the weaknesses in the President's line and bringing up their strength to try to win the first round.

The weaknesses are pretty obvious. It doesn't take a political divining rod to find them.

In my opinion, Mr. Truman would have been better off if he had taken a somewhat less righteous approach. You can imagine him saying in a subdued confessional tone that at one time or other everyone has been wrong on prices and inflation. But now the moment has come in a chastened spirit to try to correct those wrongs. That is perhaps too much to expect of any candidate for high office in an election year.

The most glaring weakness in the message was in the long paragraph dealing with the relation of wages to prices. The President seems to be saying, "Don't look now, but I'm going to have to talk about wages and you know how touchy that subject is."

After recommending price control for scarce commodities, he says that "non-inflationary wage increases can and should continue to be made by free collective bargaining." A Congress of economists might debate the definition of a "non-inflationary wage increase" for as long as the medieval theologians discussed the question of how many angels could stand on a needle point and not come any closer to a final answer.

* * *

Points to High Profits.

THE PRESIDENT rests his claim for non-inflationary wage increases on the same base that organized labor has used since the end of the war. Many profit margins, he said in his speech, have been adequate to absorb wage increases without the price increases that have followed.

Theoretically, this may be true. Profits have been fantastically, unconscionably high even after phenomenal sums have been set aside for reserves.

But it is impossible to compel management to take a wage increase out of the profit margin. That would mean economic controls, which are not politically possible.

Such controls would be likely to alter the nature of the free enterprise system far beyond the intentions of Mr. Truman and most of the labor leaders who have demanded higher wages without rising prices.

Mr. Truman also proposes that the excess-profits tax be reestablished. This is a practical proposal within the framework of our system. The fact is, however, that three years ago Mr. Truman recommended repeal of the excess-profits tax, and this Congress will certainly not put it back on again.

The most glaring omission in the message is the failure to face up to record high farm prices supported by a subsidy system in a year of record-breaking crops.

That is even more touchy ground, politically speaking, than wages. Just before adjourning in June the Congress passed a makeshift agricultural bill extending the subsidy-loan system until 1950 and the bill was signed by the President.

Last year the price-support subsidy on potatoes alone cost the government $40,000,000 by department of agriculture estimate. Other estimates have put it as high as $90,000,000. With a larger crop this year, the cost so far has been $17,000,000. What it finally will add up to the department doesn't guess.

Recommendations and professions of good intention are inevitably measured against past performance. That is the penalty of having been President through three incredibly difficult years.

Army Should Act Against Brasshatism

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Now that men are being drafted into the Army again, this column proposes to focus more attention on brasshatism, which the better-type officers have tried to eliminate of late. However, behind General MacArthur's rigid military censorship in Japan some amazing things have happened—revolving round the probable murder of Lieut. Charles Vetter at Kokura, Japan.

The facts in the case point to one of the worst scandals in the Army, so far completely hushed up.

Last year the black marketing of U. S. Army goods by high-up officers of the 24th Infantry Division was uncovered at Kokura. The provost marshal and the assistant chief of staff, both supposed to enforce the law, were caught selling Army supplies.

The man who turned them in was a lieutenant named Vetter, a young veteran of the European theater, with a wife and child back home in Indiana. Vetter was to be the star witness for the prosecution.

But while the Division's high officers were awaiting court-martial, Vetter was killed — under mysterious circumstances. Going to Moji by jeep with a driver, Vetter parked the jeep to do an errand. The driver, returning later found the jeep stolen and Vetter absent. Later his body was found on the railroad tracks, so badly mashed that doctors could not ascertain whether there had been foul play.

Slapped On Wrist.

A SUBSEQUENT court-martial fined the assistant chief of staff, Lieut. Col. Kenwood Ross of Springfield, Mass., $1,000 for selling Army rations. Maj. Elmer Van Zandt of Philadelphia, the provost marshal, was fined $200. Maj. Edward Hartline of Fostoria, Ohio, Ordnance, was fined $1,500, and Chief Warrant Officer John M. Leavitt of Norcross, Ga., was fined $300.

Significantly, the only private involved, Joseph B. Franzino, was the only man to go to jail. He got three years at hard labor plus a dishonorable discharge from the Army. Yet the evidence showed that Private Franzino was ordered by Major Hartline to transport the black-marketed goods and money. If the enlisted man had refused he would have been subjected to disciplinary action.

During the trial not a word of the strange death of Lieutenant Vetter was mentioned. No attempt was made to prosecute.

The inspector general declined to comment, and other high-ranking officers spread word that the Japanese might have killed Vetter. Yet they made no effort to apprehend any Japanese.

These are some of the things the Army itself must clean up—or otherwise expect to have cleaned up by Congress—now that draftees are going out to serve their country once again.

Dixie Caucus.

MOST important disclosure at the southern senators' closed-door caucus was a proposal by Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia to appropriate $3,500,000 to move the Negroes out of the South and poor white families into the South.

Russell told his colleagues that for some time he had been concerned about families which felt they had better economic opportunity in other parts of the country, and that if they wanted to move, the government should help them.

Therefore he proposed that the government furnish up to $1,500 per family for transportation and sustenance if they wanted to move. He also proposed a "voluntary racial relocation commission" of three members to study the problem.

Russell said that this idea should apply to the West, North and East as well as the South.

His only worry about the plan was the "church folks" in the South whom he said, might be opposed to this migration idea if it was rammed down the Negroes' throats. Therefore Russell stressed the idea of voluntary migration.

Other southern senators at the caucus backed the Russell proposal unanimously.

They also agreed that there would be no bolting to the Dixiecrats, and that if cloture were voted on civil-rights legislation each would speak one hour against it. Most of the meeting was taken up with speculation as to what the Republicans would do.

Truman Irked at Tito.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN rejected a last-minute suggestion from Democratic advisers that he discuss the tense international situation in his message to Congress. The reason, he said, was because the prospects for peace were brighter than they have been for three months.

"Conditions internationally are better now than they were three months ago," the President told Sen. Alben Barkley, Rep. John McCormack and other Democratic leaders.

He was visibly irritated over a newspaper report that former governor of California, Culbert Olsen, had talked to Marshal Tito and was optimistic about better trade relations between Yugoslavia and the United States.

"There is no foundation to that," snorted the President. The United States, he added sharply, does not intend to baby Marshal Tito just because he has been dropped by the Cominform.

Note—One day after the President's optimistic note on the international situation, the Soviets started the largest maneuvers since the end of the war in their zone of Germany. A total of 350,000 men plus jet fighters and Stalin tanks maneuvered for the benefit of the U. S. A.

Assignment: America

Their Unweighed Words

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — The prayer had been said, the President's call had been read and the roll had been called. It seemed there was a quorum present, so the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States proceeded with business.

First, it seemed the gentlemen had made some speeches, listened to some and done a bit of reading since adjournment some weeks earlier.

These experiences they wished to share with their colleagues, and all others who might subscribe to the government printed "Congressional Record."

Hence, they arose one by one to ask permission to revise, edit and extend their remarks, including this and that, for the Record. It was granted, so thousands of words began to go into the Record, starting with the address of Virginia's Porter Hardy jr., before the Norfolk Rotary club.

Thereafter, it included such extension of remarks as those of Michigan's Clare E. Hoffman concerning the "gangsters return to prison," the Stassen-nominating speech delivered by Minnesota's Walter E. Judd at Philadelphia, several editorials and newspaper stories, a couple of letters either to congressmen or to editors or to both, the address delivered by Michigan's Roy Woodruff at the centennial anniversary of the settlement of Frankenlust township, Bay county, Michigan, some comments on the government of Ireland and a poem written by a Washington lawyer, poet and Hiberian.

Then, having observed the amenities and given the printers something to make them earn their money, the boys got down to business.

Speaking of Pigeons.

GEORGE BENDER, Ohio's congressman-at-large, discoursed at length on the pigeons which were turned loose at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia. Each time he mentioned the subject, his Republican colleagues howled with laughter.

A little later, Mississippi's John Rankin arose to blast the "damnable FEPC"—the Fair Employment Practices Commission — and to "challenge President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of the state of New York, to engage in a nation-wide radio debate with me on this FEPC, the most dangerous communistic piece of legislation with which the American people have even been threatened."

He said if they didn't want to take him on, he'd take on whomever they designated, and you got the impression that if they didn't designate anybody he wouldn't let that stop him either!

A few minutes later, Bender was back upon his feet, pointing out that the Democrats deserved what the pigeons did to them in Philadelphia on account of what Truman and his predecessor had done to this country at Potsdam and Tehran and Yalta. Pressed for amplification, Bender asserted that Potsdam, Tehran and Yalta actions were responsible for high prices here at home today—pigeons or no pigeons.

New York's John Rooney got a little caustic at this point, suggesting that Brother Bender seemed to have pigeons on the brain.

Things were getting a little confused when California's Helen Gahagan Douglas arose to opine as how the country's housewives couldn't eat speeches.

"What is the cause of present high prices?" asked she rhetorically, "because we have to agree on the cause in order to arrive at the remedy. Let us stop making speeches and see if we cannot agree on a remedy to correct present high prices and get some houses built."

Bender arose to disagree with her. In the press gallery, some wag prophesied that the congressman would say, "let 'em eat pigeons," but he didn't.

Then up gets Reid Murray of Wisconsin who shocks the assemblage by suggesting that if congressmen are going to keep talking about lowering prices, why not start by lowering their own salaries?

Now talk is talk and all good fun, but there is such a thing as going too far—even in the House of Representatives. Swiftly, the House adjourned.

Dave Boone Says:

THAT sure is a cold war between President Truman and the turnip Congress. The opening was so frigid that it looked like a demonstration of life in a deep-freeze unit . . . Harry and the entire cast should have come on by dogsled.

* * *

A lot of congressmen can't make out whether they are in Washington or still in Philadelphia. They acted at the opening as if they were awaiting a tenor solo and a report by the credentials committee.

* * *

I see where the British resent the American suggestions for speeding up production over there. Lord Beaverbrook declares that accepting American technical advice would be "humiliating."

* * *

It would be almost as embarrassing as finding itself out of trouble, in fact.

ODD FACT

Farmer's Diary

Vital Elements Retained

By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT THE northeast corner of our valley, close to where the hills roll back, is found a very useful gravel pit. For many years the township dug out sand and gravel and used it for the highways.

Each year, for road repair, the finer gravel is hauled by truck for miles across the land. It makes a solid, easy road -- but one objection is that when rains are not abundant, great clouds of dust sift in upon roadside homes. At times, when the wind is high from the west, it scoops tons of this dry dust and scatters it far across the nearby fields.

Along the graveled roads, clover grows abundantly from wind-blown seed . . . alsike and sweet clover, vetch and alfalfa, perennial peas and other leguminous plants. Honey locusts spring up frequently.

The dust of the road has lime as a basic element, and like an inland river, the roadbed limes adjacent land and dusts it with many chemical soil elements.

The quarry is an interesting place to study rocks. There are layers of fine sand, layers of washed gravel, layers of blue clay fine enough for modeling. Sometimes old flints or arrowheads turn up.

Alfalfa roots go deep enough into the rock to bring up vital elements. Perhaps within this small space of earth there still exists enough health-giving minerals and trace elements to supply our entire neighborhood. For these gravel deposits are part of the terminal moraines, carried in by the ice in the time of the great glaciers.

Considering that they were brought from far north and left here by the melting ice, it is probably that many essential minerals are in their variety.

Like an inland river, which carries away excess water and gives freely wherever it flows, asking nothing in return, a dusty gravel road wears itself out in service and dusts the whole earth around it with vital chemical elements. Nothing natural is ever lost.

As Cerf Tells It

Ruth McGibeny tells a story of a couple who had been going together for some twenty years. One spring day the lady suddenly got tired of waiting and said, "Y'know, I think we ought to get married." "Maybe you're right," conceded the man, "but who would have us."

W. O. Burkholders Hold Open House on Golden Anniversary

OVER 100 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Burkholder joined them in observance of their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Burkholder had open house all day and during the evening at their home, 94 South Main street.

The couple was married July 28, 1898, in the Methodist parsonage at Perrysville. Rev. Sears was the officiating minister.

For many years they operated a general store at Newville and in October, 1917 they moved to Mansfield where Mr. Burkholder went into the real estate business in which he is still engaged.

There are five children. They are Mrs. Dale Jessop, Dawson avenue; Mrs. Roscoe McGinty, Home road; Blaine Burkholder, R. D. 1; Brice Burkholder, Brilliant; and Mrs. George Yeingst, Brookville, Pa. The couple has nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The table at which ice cream and cake were served at the open house was centered with a huge five-tiered cake trimmed with the numerals "50" and roses, all in gold. Mr. Burkholder, assisted by Mrs. Jessup, served the guests.

Arrangements of yellow flowers were used throughout the home and Mr. Burkholder's gift to his wife was a large vase containing 50 yellow rosebuds. The arrangement included gold-tinted leaves. The couple received many gifts from their children and friends.

Twenty members of the family were present at the couple's home for a dinner Wednesday evening. The children were hosts.

Friends Honor Wilma Ross

Miss Wilma Ross, who will become the bride of John A. Adams Aug. 7, was feted twice during the past week by her friends.

Thursday evening her mother, Mrs. Grace Ross, and Mrs. Doris Butler, who will serve as matron of honor at the wedding, gave a miscellaneous shower for her at the Ross home, 202½ West Park boulevard.

The ten guests spent the evening compiling a bride's book and later refreshments were served at the card tables at which they were seated. The gifts were presented to Miss Ross after the lunch.

Miss Ross shared honors at another recent party with Miss Betty Ann Walker, Saturday bride-elect of Earl Hershey. Hostesses were Mrs. John McNamara jr. and Mrs. Garnet Pace and the party was given at the Ross home.

Games were the diversion and prizes were awarded to Miss Ross and Mrs. Charles Rinchart.

Refreshments were served buffet style and the buffet was decorated with an arrangement of assorted garden flowers. The personal shower gifts were presented to the brides-elect at the close of the evening.

The Walker-Hershey marriage will be solemnized Saturday at 2 p. m. in the First English Lutheran church.

Ladies' Aid Division

The Ladies' Aid Division One of the United Presbyterian church enjoyed a covered dish dinner Wednesday noon at North Lake park. Ten members and two guests, Mrs. Albert Bonnan and son, Jack, from LeRoy, Ill., were present. The next meeting will be Aug. 25 at the home of Mrs. A. H. Althouse, 240 Richland avenue.

Four tables of bridge were in play in the clubroom after dinner. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. David Williams and Mrs. Denzil Schaaf.

The hostesses, who will serve as bridesmaids at the wedding, presented a personal gift to the honoree.

During the afternoon the guests hemmed tea towels for the bride-elect.

Miss Gray was given a bouquet of mixed flowers and each one she selected from the arrangement matched a flower placed on top of one of the gifts which were hidden around the home. After she found the gifts, which were kitchen equipment, she was allowed to open them.

Remove Juvenile Patient's Fear of Tonsil Operation

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

ALL SORTS of needless emotional sufferings, with repercussions lasting for years, attend and follow the removal of a young child's tonsils. Sometimes the doctor or nurse has not been skillful in dealing with the child as a person. More often the parents have not.

Properly preparing a child from two to five or six emotionally for a tonsilectemy is a great work of art and there are some mothers who are very successful at it. Often the physician and nurse aid her in this achievement.

On the advice of the physician our three children all had their tonsils removed. When the eldest was three, Mrs. Myers and I didn't know much about such problems (this child is now the father of four girls all under nine.) But we supposed the physician and nurse would be humane. I took the child to the hospital while Mrs. Myers stayed at home with the baby.

I had kept the little lad happy and, in good faith, had ignorantly promised to stay right with him. Suddenly the nurse appeared, snatched the child from my arms and commanded me to stay where I was. Naturally, the youngster screamed and continued to do so till the ether stilled him. It was the hardest ordeal, I think, that I have ever endured, and even worse for the poor child. It was the first time I had failed him and "deceived him" (as he supposed).

Well, for weeks and months that child would awaken screaming one or several times a night.

When the next child went for her tonsil operation it was very different. The physician and nurse understood little children. Together with us parents they helped plan the whole matter so there would be no emotional catastrophe.

Calmly the child was told what to expect. When she returned home from the hospital she told her playmate of the wonderful time she had had and the playmate began begging her mother "to take me to the hospital to have my tonsils out."

With the third child the emotional preparation was equally successful. I recall his waving and smiling as I left him at the door of the operating room and his asking the doctor about the "thing" being put over his nose, he not quite finishing before he was "out." All his references to the experiences later were made with apparent pleasure.

Some months ago the one-time victim of the tonsil operation tragedy years ago (which I have described) wrote us that his daughter Linda, four years old, was being prepared for a tonsil operation a few weeks hence. He reported that the older three children were working on her and that although they told her that her throat would feel sore after the operation they had her looking forward with happy expectation to the event. "Great propaganda," he wrote. Then, following the operation, the mother wrote us on a postcard: "Linda had her tonsils out this morning and she is the prize 'tonsil-getter-outer.' She loved the 'gas mask' and just laughed with the nurse till she was under the anaesthetic. She hasn't been a bit of trouble all day, no nausea, fussing or tears. The nurse can't get over her, especially the one that gave her 'shots'."

It's Easy to Iron a Shirt

1—Thread the shirt on the roll so that the right sleeve is over the roll. The rest of the shirt hangs over the roll support.

2—Sleeves are ironed single thickness over the ironer roll. Do the right sleeve first, then the back yoke, and left sleeve.

3—Iron the left shirt front as flat work from bottom to collar. Iron the button side of the front on the wrong side.

4—Iron the collar lengthwise: first on the underside, then on the right side. Cuffs are ironed over the end of the roll.

A well-ironed shirt is the mark of a good homemaker today as it was in grandma's day.

The modern homemaker, however, need not spend hours over a steaming ironing board. An electric ironer does shirts better in a fraction of the time and makes the job a "sitdown" one.

Modern irons take only 4½ minutes to do a shirt. A small diameter roll and shoe concentrate heat and pressure to turn out neatly finished shirts with a minimum of effort. They also permit them to be ironed like flat work. Even the sleeves are ironed single thickness and side creases are eliminated.

The simple knee control leaves both hands free to guide the shirt. In seven easy steps you can finish each shirt in less than five minutes.

1. Iron the right sleeve — all but the cuff—single thickness on the roll. Smooth it out so the underarm seam comes directly under the shoe. Iron around the sleeve to the button side of the placket.

2. Center the yoke and adjust the roll to start six or seven inches below back of collar. Iron to collar seam.

3. Slip the second sleeve on the roll and iron like the first one. Then, center the back of the shirt and iron from tail to yoke.

4. Iron the left front from bottom to collar. Turn the shirt over and iron the button side of the front, wrong side out, with buttons cushioned against the roll.

5. Iron cuffs around the left end of the roll, first on the wrong side, then on the right to give a high finish.

6. Iron the collar either at the end of the roll like the cuffs or lengthwise of the roll, pressing it first on the under side, then on the right side. "Shape" the collar with your fingers and iron in the crease over the end of the roll.

7. Center the buttonhole band on the roll—right side facing shoe. Stretch slightly and press for a few seconds to finish smartly.

Ironers can be put away as soon as you finish ironing. Simply fold up the machine and wheel it into a convenient corner or closet. It isn't necessary to set it aside until cool because the shoe is not likely to touch anything when the ironer is unfolded.

Horoscope

For Saturday, July 31
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Judging by a dynamic congeries of major planets this may be a day on which "anything can happen." The unpredictable and unprecedented, the amazing and astonishing, is likely to befall—particularly in personal, romantic or unconventional relations. At the same time there is stimulus for ambitious projects of a bold and novel initiative, with much vigor and enterprise going far toward concrete reality. Attacked with well-executed plans and techniques it may as well prove profitable if promoted with discretion, tact and wise consideration for influential associates, who may be of intriguing character.

Those whose birthday it is, are advised to be prepared for almost any sort of development, spectacular and dramatic, largely operating in private relations of social, professional and romantic interest. There may be unorthodox or irregular phases with curious reactions on more practical affairs. The latter are under excellent stimulus for forthright and intensive management, with assured assistance of those whose influence and capital may be needful. However, these should be approached with tact and finesse, and not by attempts crudely to force issues. Be alert to surprising factors.

A child born on this day although being energetic, constructive and ambitious, may win the friendly aid of influential persons. Its personal relations may develop peculiar and unforeseen angles.

Gold Glitters On Your Feet

Long ago, in distant lands, it was believed that American streets were paved with gold, says CHARM, the magazine for the business girl. This summer, if a traveler should wander in search of golden streets, his dreams would be fulfilled. For business girls all over the nation have set American streets a-glitter with their golden shoes.

Golden shoes, in strapped Grecian styles, are designed especially for wear with summer fashions and summer colors. Well-ventilated, of goddesslike delicacy, with flat or low heels, these shoes are made for the fleet-footed business girl who has things to do and places to go.

Wear them with bright yellow, CHARM suggests. Add a gold belt and a bunch of daisies, and you'll be compared with a summer's day. To pink and all pastels, gold adds grace; to black or white, elegance.

Cayenne or "red" pepper gives flavor to many dishes: cheese scouffle, salad dressing, cole slaw.

Household Hints

One-half cup of grated American cheese may be added to a one-cup flour recipe for baking powder biscuits. The tops of the biscuits may be sprinkled with paprika just before baking. This amount will make enough biscuits for two to three people.

Peanut butter sauce is good on cooked cabbage, onions or cauliflower. You won't need much flour in this sauce as it will thicken the liquid as it cooks. Use 1 tablespoon table fat; ¼ cup peanut butter; 2 teaspoons flour; ½ teaspoo salt; pepper; and 1 cup milk. Melt fat over boiling water, blend in peanut butter. Add flour, seasonings, stir until smooth. Stir in cold milk slowly. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly.

Gallipolis Develops Industrially

Electric Power Marks Expansion

GALLIPOLIS — Installing basic services, such as adequate electricity and other utilities which must come before industrial expansion, is a marked feature in development of the area of which Gallipolis is the center

This information was given the Ohio Development and Publicity commission by Harold W Wetherholt, publisher of the Gallipolis Daily Tribune and the Gallia Times Governor Thomas J Herbert directed the commission to make a study of recent changes in Ohio manufacturing activity

Electricity is essential for the chemical industries that will develop this area's natural resources of salt brines, limestone, glass sand and coal.

The Sporn generating plant now under construction at Graham Station, West Virginia, nine miles up river from Pomeroy, Ohio will supply current When completed this power plant of the American Gas and Electric company will be one of the largest and most efficient power stations in the United States High pressures and high temperatures will enable it to turn out a kilowatt-hour of electricity for 10,000 or less B T U of heat or less than one pound of average coal.

Chemical developments that may benefit will include plants on both sides of the Ohio river and in the Kanawha valley in West Virginia Chemical industries extend along the Ohio river from above Marietta, where the Willow Island plant of the American Cyanamide company is located, to below Ironton where Dow Chemical company has acquired industrial property

Undulant fever in man is traceable to brucellosis of cattle

Down Through History In Uhrichsville

Smoke Signals Signify Prosperity

UHRICHSVILLE—Smoke signals in the Tuscarawas country were fraught with meaning at the time of the American Revolution when trigger-happy white renegades murdered 90 Christian Indians at Gnadenhutten They are still important in Tuscarawas county, particularly around Uhrichsville and its twin city Dennison These modern smoke signals signify prosperity in sewer pipe manufacture, an industry with Uhrichsville as its capital

Hard-fired clay withstands domestic and industrial sewage, even if it is acid or alkali In the current building boom, the kilns of the Uhrichsville district smoke by day and flare by night as the plants work to keep up with the demand for sewer pipe

Ohio produces more than one-third of the nation's sewer pipe, and the plants around Uhrichsville account for about three-fourths of Ohio's output.

Figures on Uhrichsville's leadership in sewer pipe production were given to the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission by Prof J O Everhart of the Engineering Experiment Station Ohio State university The commission is making a study of recent industrial changes in Ohio at the request of Governor Thomas J Herbert

Tuscarawas county contains 13 of Ohio's 21 sewer pipe plants Clay supplies and know-how in sewer pipe manufacture have concentrated the industry at Uhrichsville to a surprising degree

Know-how is not enough to meet modern competition Sewer pipe manufacture and performance are being improved by research Professor Everhart is research director of the National Clay Pipe Research corporation, representing 65 per cent of the nation's sewer pipe manufacturing capacity and including four Canadian plants The program of investigation was arranged by the Ohio State University Research Foundation

Dewey Sees GOP Victory

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov Thomas E Dewey of New York the Republican presidential nominee, yesterday predicted the "overwhelming' re election of Governor Thomas J Herbert

Gov Dewey's prediction was made in replying to a letter sent him by Gov Herbert pledging full co-operation between the Ohio and national Republican organizations

Gov Dewey said that with co-operation between state and national candidates, Ohio should be in the Republican column after the November election

Judge OK's Union Ban On Spending

Taft-Hartley Law Upheld In Test

NEW HAVEN, Conn —(AP)— The Taft-Hartley law's ban on political spending by labor unions was upheld here by a federal judge

Judge Carroll C Hinks refused to dismiss indictments against an AFL local which bought political advertising aimed against the presidential aspirations of Sen Robert A Taft, R, O

The AFL case concerned a local which advertised "in an established newspaper of general circulation and for a broadcast by a commercial radio station.

"The Congressional history of the act" the judge said, "makes it abundantly plain that the expenditures upon which this prosecution is based were of that very kind which Congress intended to forbid

'The act was well within the limits of federal legislative power and it was not invalidated by its incidental effect in restraint upon the freedoms protected by the first amendment"

Counsel for Local 481, Brotherhood of Painters Decorators and Paperhangers of Hartford, had sought dismissal of the test case on grounds that the Taft-Hartley ban violated constitutional guarantees of free speech and a free press

Officials said the union and its president, John R O'Brien will have to plead within two weeks. Maximum penalties are $5,000 for the union and $1 000 or one year imprisonment or both for O'Brien.

Bank Enrolls In Aid Plan

The Mansfield Savings and Trust National bank has enrolled all of its employes in the Blue Cross plan for hospital care and the Blue Shield plan for surgical care, it was announced today.

Under the Blue Cross plan for hospital care, hospital bills are paid directly to the hospital. The Blue Shield plan pays the member in cash for surgical operations, leaving undisturbed the present patient-doctor relationship. Both give equal protection to all family members.

At present there are approximately 300 employer-employe groups in Mansfield that are enrolled in the Blue Cross plan.

More than 50 per cent of the Richland county population and more than 30,000,000 persons in the U. S. and Canada have Blue Cross protection against hospital expense.
